If the early stage of the formation of the system is considered, the first step is the formation of the primary nucleus, which is composed of the primary particles. The second step is the formation of the secondary nucleus, which is composed of the secondary particles.

The filing of a patent application is required by 35 U.S.C. 111. The following is a brief description of the U.S.P.T.O. process for an application. Consideration of an application may take up to 12 months or longer, depending upon the complexity of the application and the number of applications filed at the same time. The application will be examined by a patent examiner who will determine if the invention is patentable. If the application is rejected, the applicant may file a "continuation" application which will be examined again. The application will be granted if it is found to be patentable. The grant of a patent will give the inventor the right to exclude others from making, using, or selling the invention. The inventor may also retain a right to exclude others from making, using, or selling the invention. The application is estimated to take 12 months to complete. This will depend on the complexity of the application. The application should be sent to the Chief Information Officer, U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, P.O. Box 1450, Alexandria, VA 22313-1450. DO NOT SEND FEES OR COMPLETED FORMS TO THIS ADDRESS.
